A Short HISTORY OF EDUCATION*

by Richard Armour

Prehistoric Times

LITTLE is known about higher education during the Stone Age, which is perhaps just as well.

Because of a weakness in the liberal arts, the B.A. was not offered, and there was only the B.S., or Bachelor of Stones. Laboratory facilities were meager, owing to a lack of government contracts and support from private industry, but the stars were readily available, on clear nights, for those interested in astronomy. (Scholars, who went around without much on, looked at the stars with the naked eye.)

Prehistoric students, being before history, failed to comprehend the fundamentals of the subject, such as its being divided into Ancient, Medieval, and Modern.

There were no College Boards. This was fortunate, because without saw or plane, boards were rough.

Nor were there any fraternities. The only clubs on the campus were those carried by the students or, in self-defense, by members of the faculty.

Alumni organizations were in their infancy, where some of them have remained. The alumni secretary occupied a small cave, left behind when the director of development moved to a larger one. While waiting for contributions to come in, he idly doodled on the wall, completely unaware that art critics would someday mistake his drawings of certain members of the board of trustees for dinosaurs and saber-toothed tigers.

The Alumni Quarterly came out every quarter of a century, and was as eagerly awaited as it is today.

The Classical Period

In ancient Athens everyone knew Greek, and in ancient Rome everyone knew Latin, even small children—which those who have taken Elementary Greek or Elementary Latin will find hard to believe. Universities wishing to teach a language which had little practical use but was good for mental discipline could have offered English if they had thought of it.

Buildings were all in the classical style, and what looked like genuine marble was genuine marble. However, philosophy classes were sometimes held on the steps, the students being so eager to learn that they couldn't wait to get inside.

The Peripatetic School was a college where the professors kept moving from town to town, closely followed by students and creditors. Sometimes lectures were held in the Groves of Academe, where students could munch apples and olives and occasionally cast an anxious eye at birds in the branches overhead.

Under the Caesars, taxation became so burdensome that Romans in the upper brackets found they might as well give money to their Alma Mater instead of letting the State have it. Thus it was that crowds often gathered along the Appian Way to applaud a spirited chariot race

About the Author

Richard Armour is the author of 22 books of humor and satire, including the recent Golf Is a Four-Letter Word. In addition to his books, he has written more than 5,000 pieces of light verse and prose for magazines in the United States and Great Britain. He is, as well, professor of English and dean of the faculty at Scripps College in Claremont, California.

Commissioned last spring while Professor Armour was on leave in Japan, "A Short History of Education" is, according to the author, "probably the first piece of the sort written in an unheated Zan Buddhist temple" while the writer was clad "in long underwear, heaviest suit, overcoat, sweater, and goose pimples." Since he had no access to any but Japanese books, he reports the history "had to be out of my head, which is what I am most of the time, anyhow."

Readers who like his approach to the history of education will also enjoy It All Started With Eve, It All Started With Columbus, It All Started With Europa, It all Started With Marx, Twisted Tales From Shakespeare, and The Classics Reclassified.

Professor Armour has a Ph.D. from Harvard. He has taught not only at Scripps College, where he has been on the faculty since 1945, but also at the University of Texas, Northwestern University, Wells College, University of Freiburg, and University of Hawaii.

Looking at Education — With Tongue in Cheek between the chairman of the funds drive and the tax collector, each trying to get to a good prospect first.

The word “donor” comes from the Latin donare, to give, and is not to be confused with dunare, to dun, though it frequently is.

When a prominent alumnus was thrown to the lions, customary procedure in the alumni office was to observe a moment of silence, broken only by the sounds of munching. Then the secretary, wrapping his toga a little more tightly around him, solemnly declared, “Well, we might as well take him off the cultivation list.”

The Middle Ages

In the period known as the Dark Ages, or nighthood, everyone was in the dark. Higher education survived only because of illuminated manuscripts, which were discovered during a routine burning of a library. It is interesting to reconstruct a typical classroom scene: a group of dedicated students clustered around a glowing piece of parchment, listening to a lecture in Advanced Monasticism, a ten-year course. If some found it hard to concentrate, it was because they were dreaming about quitting before exams and going off on a crusade.

Some left even sooner, before the end of the lecture, having spied a beautiful damsel being pursued by a dragon who had designs on her. Damsels, who were invariably in distress, wrought havoc on a young man's grade-point average.

Members of the faculty were better off than previously, because they wore coats of armor. Fully accoutered, and with their visors down, they could summon up enough courage to go into the president's office and ask for a promotion even though they had not published a thing.

At this time the alumni council became more aggressive in its fund drives, using such persuasive devices as the thumbscrew, the knout, the rack, and the wheel. A wealthy alumnus would usually donate generously if a sufficient number of alumni, armed with pikestaffs and halberds, could cross his moat and storm his castle walls. A few could be counted on to survive the rain of stones, arrows, and molten lead. Such a group of alumni, known as “the committee,” was customarily conducted to the castle by a troubador, who led in the singing of the Alma Mater Song the while.

The Renaissance

During the Renaissance, universities sprang up all over Europe. You could go to bed at night, with not a university around, and the next morning there would be two universities right down the street, each with a faculty, student body, campanile, and need for additional endowment.

The first universities were in Italy, where Dante was required reading. Some students said his “Paradise” and “Purgatory” were as hard as “Hell.” Boccaccio was not required but was read anyhow, and in the original Italian, so much being lost in translation. Other institutions soon followed, such as Heidelberg, where a popular elective was Duelling 103a,b, usually taken concurrently with First Aid, and the Sorbonne, which never seemed to catch on with tourists as much as the Eiffel Tower, the Folies Bergere, and Napoleon's Tomb. In England there was Oxford, where, by curious coincidence, all of the young instructors were named Don. There was also Cambridge.

The important thing about the Renaissance, which was a time of awakening (even in the classroom), was education of the Whole Man. Previously such vital parts as the elbows and ear lobes had been neglected. The graduate of a university was supposed, above all, to be a Gentleman. This meant that he should know such things as archery, falconry, and fencing (subjects now largely relegated to Physical Education and given only one-half credit per semester), as well as, in the senior year, how to use a knife and fork.

During the Renaissance, the works of Homer, Virgil, and other classical writers were rediscovered, much to the disappointment of students.

Alumni officials concentrated their efforts on securing a patron, someone rich like Lorenzo de' Medici, someone clever like Machiavelli, or (if they wished to get rid of a troublesome member of the administration) someone really useful like Lucrezia Borgia.

Colonial America

The first universities in America were founded by the Puritans. This explains the strict regulations about Late Hours, Compulsory Chapel, No Liquor on the Campus, and Off-Limits to Underclassmen which still exist at many institutions.

Some crafts were taught, but witchcraft was an extra-curricular activity. Witch-burning, on the other hand, was the seventeenth century equivalent of hanging a football coach in effigy at the end of a bad season. Though deplored, it was passed off by the authorities as attributable to “youthful exuberance.”

Harvard set the example for naming colleges after donors. William and Mary, though making a good try, failed to start a trend for using first names. It was more successful, however, in starting Phi Beta Kappa, a fraternity which permitted no rough stuff in its initiations. At first the Phi Beta Kappa key was worn on the key ring, but the practice went out with the discovery of the watch chain and vest.

During the Colonial Period, alumni officials limited their fund-raising activities to those times when an alumnus was securely fastened, hands and legs, in the stocks. In this position he was completely helpless and gave generously, or could be frisked.

Revolutionary America

Higher education came to a virtual standstill during the Revolution—every able-bodied male having enlisted for the duration. Since the ROTC was not yet established, college men were forced to have other qualifications for a commission, such as money.

General George Washington was given an honorary degree by Harvard and this helped see him through the difficult winter at Valley Forge. Since he gave no commencement address, it is assumed that he made a substantial contribution to the building fund. Then again, mindful of the reputation he had gained through Parson Weem's spreading of the cherry tree story, he may have established a chair in Ethics.

Unlike the situation during World War I, when colleges and universities abandoned the teaching of German in order to humiliate the Kaiser, the Colonists waged the Revolutionary War successfully without prohibiting the teaching of English. They did, however, force students to substitute such good old American words as "suspenders" for "braces," and themes were marked down when the spelling "tyre" was used for "tire" and "colour" for "color."

The alumni publication, variously called the Alumni Bulletin, the Alumni Quarterly, and the Alumni Newsletter, was probably invented at this time by Benjamin Franklin, who invented almost everything else, including bifocals and kites. The first such publication was probably Poor Alumnus' Almanac, full of such homely sayings as "Early to bed and early to rise makes a man healthy, wealthy, and wise enough to write his Alma Mater into his will."

Contemporary America

In the nineteenth century, denominational colleges were founded in all parts of the country, especially Ohio. In the smaller of these colleges, money was mostly given in small denominations. A few colleges were not named after John Wesley.

State universities came into being at about the same time, and were tax supported. Every taxpayer was therefore a donor, but without getting his name on a building or being invited to dinner by the president. The taxpayer, in short, was in the same class as the Anonymous

Giver, but not because he asked that his name be withheld.

About the middle of the nineteenth century, women were admitted to college. This was done (1) to relieve men of having to take women's parts in dramatic productions, (2) to provide cheerleaders with shapelier legs, and (3) to recruit members for the Women's Glee Club, which was not prospering. Women students came to be known as co-eds, meaning that they went along with a man's education, and he could study and date simultaneously. It was not realized, when they were admitted, that women would get most of the high marks, especially from professors who graded on curves.

In the twentieth century, important strides were made, such as the distinction which developed between education and Education. Teachers came to be trained in what were at first called Normal Schools. With the detection of certain abnormalities, the name was changed to Teachers Colleges.

John Dewey introduced Progressive Education, whereby students quickly knew more than their teachers and told them so. Robert Hutchins turned the University of Chicago upside down, thereby necessitating a new building program. At St. John's College everyone studied the Great Books, which were more economical because they did not come out each year in a revised edition. Educational television gave college professors an excuse for owning a television set, which they had previously maintained would destroy the reading habit. This made it possible for them to watch Westerns and old movies without losing status.

Of recent years, an increasing number of students spend their junior year abroad. This enables them to get a glimpse of professors who have been away for several years on Fulbrights and Guggenheims.

Student government has grown apace, students now not only governing themselves but giving valuable suggestions, in the form of ultimatums, to the presidents and deans. In wide use is the Honor System, which makes the professor leave the room during an examination because he is not to be trusted.

Along with these improvements in education has come a subtle change in the American alumnus. No longer interested only in the record of his college's football team, he is likely to appear at his class reunion full of such penetrating questions as "Why is the tuition higher than it was in 1934?" "Is it true that 85% of the members of the faculty are Communists?" and "How can I get my son (or daughter) in?"

Alumni magazines have kept pace with such advancements. The writing has improved, thanks to schools of journalism, until there is excitement and suspense even in the obituary column. Expression has reached such a high point of originality that a request for funds may appear, at first reading, to be a gift offer.

However, if pictorial content continues to increase, it will not be necessary for alumni to know how to read.

This cannot come too soon.

CROSS-CUTTING THE CAMPUS

A TRANS-ATLANTIC phone call and a write-in campaign proved a successful formula in electing a Student Senate president "in absentia" this year.

Ronald M. Smelser '64, Medina, Ohio, is taking his junior year of undergraduate study in Marburg, West Germany, under the "Brethren Colleges Abroad" plan. But that did not prevent campus supporters from obtaining his permission via phone and conducting a lively campaign against two on-campus opponents. He won on the first ballot.

Hence, Smelser, a history major, became head of student government at the traditional Move-Up Day March 18 although he will not return to the campus until next September. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Smelser and a graduate of Altoona High School in 1960.

Other officers elected were: Richard C. Morgan, North Braddock, vice-president; Bea A. Schorsch, Pittsburgh, secretary; and Leslie D. Eshelman, New Enterprise, treasurer.

'HB' Is Recognized

JUNIATA'S ALUMNI secretary and director of development, Harold B. Brumbaugh '33, has been honored by the American Alumni Council "for a quarter century of outstanding service to the cause of higher education and the advancement of alumni interest."

Mr. Brumbaugh received a citation from the Council at its annual conference in the Poconos in January. The "accolade" was presented by James Armstrong, president of AAC and director of alumni relations at Notre Dame.

"HB" joined the Juniata staff in 1936 as assistant to the president—a position he continues to hold.

Coed Scores Rare 800

A FRESHMAN COED—and daughter of an alumnus—with "advanced placement" at the College has recorded one of the rare perfect scores on the verbal test of the College Entrance Examination Board.

Lucinda A. (Cindy) Thoman, daughter of Raymond H. Thoman '39, and Mrs. Thoman, who once taught Classics at Juniata, scored 800 on the board's verbal test this year. This is accomplished only "once in about every 15,000 cases," according to CEEB.

Cindy entered Juniata last September after completing her junior year at Sharpsville, Pa., Joint High School. She has not yet received her high school diploma, but she has nearly finished her first year of college and has qualified as a finalist in the National Merit Scholarship competition.

She hopes to gain the scholarship to help finance the remainder of her education at Juniata where her father (education and wire editor for the Sharon Herald) was graduated and once served as director of publicity (1940-1942). Ray is chairman of the Alumni Communications Committee.

Cindy's major interest is biological research, but she likes music and played in the College Band and College-Community Symphony.

Admissions 'Boom'

APPLICATIONS for next year's freshman class are running well ahead of 1962, thus indicating that the "wave" of college-bound students is sweeping in on College Hill.

The Admissions Office reported 722 applications March 1 compared to 653 at the same time last year. Men outnumber women by a small margin 382 to 340.

The College had accepted 308 of these applicants by March 1—160 men and 148 women. Approximately 300 will enter the freshman class.

Macbeth Produced

STUDENTS from nine states were in the cast of 25 for the College's presentation of Shakespeare's Macbeth March 7, 8, 9.

Pennsylvanians led the list with 14, including the leading man, Ralph H. Colflesh '65, Philadelphia, and the leading lady, Susanne K. Judy '65, Somerset.

However, there were two from California, Maryland, and New York, and one each from Connecticut, Illinois, Kansas, New Jersey and Ohio. Clayton E. Briggs was director.

Choir On Tour

THE 40-VOICE Juniata College Choir opened its 31st season with an 11-day tour of western Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Twenty-two concerts in churches, high schools, television and radio were sung during the tour Jan. 24 to Feb. 3. Concerts were held in Ebensburg, Shelocta, Indiana, Blairsville, Irwin, Greensburg and Pittsburgh before moving into Ohio.

The Ohio tour included concerts in Poland, Youngstown, Canfield, Akron, Dalton and Orville. A performance was given on WKBN-TV, Youngstown. En route home, the choir appeared in McKees Rocks, Pittsburgh, Elizabeth, Washington, Meyersdale and Johnstown.

The Juniata choir, under the direction of Prof. Donald S. Johnson, had four other weekend tours to other sections of Pennsylvania and Maryland later in the season. In addition, joint concerts were held with Elizabethtown College in Huntingdon March 16 and with Susquehanna University in Selinsgrove March 30.

Brethren Campus Day

THE TENTH ANNUAL Brethren Campus Day program, scheduled for Saturday, May 11, will focus on the interpretation of matters relating to higher education.

Planned to be of special interest to high school sophomores, juniors and their parents, the program will provide information of value to pastors, youth counselors and congregational Juniata representatives.

President Calvert N. Ellis, Dean Morley Mays and Treasurer John T. Fike will speak at the morning session (10 a. m.) in the Fellowship Hall of the Stone Church. Discussions, group meetings, personal interviews and campus tours will be scheduled.

Registered visitors will be guests of the College for the luncheon and the traditional May Day activities beginning at 2:30 p. m.

Schools Scheduled

TWO BRETHREN schools have been scheduled on the Juniata campus for this summer. The Eastern Regional Laboratory School, directed by Glenn Bowlby, is set for July 28 to Aug. 3 and the Bethany Seminary Extension School will be held July 29 to Aug. 2.

Science Lectures

A SCIENCE LECTURE series, featuring six eminent scientists in the fields of chemistry and physics, has been arranged by the College for the Spring term.

The series, aided by a grant from Research Corporation, began Feb. 18-20 with Dr. Milton Tamres, associate professor of chemistry, University of Michigan, as guest lecturer.

Other lectures were scheduled as follows: March 5-7, Dr. Fay Ajzenberg Selove, associate professor of physics, Haverford College; March 20-22, Dr. Donald S. McClure, professor of chemistry, University of Chicago; April 3-5, Dr. John Trischka, professor of physics, Syracuse University; and May 1-3, Dr. Fred Basolo, professor of chemistry, Northwestern University.

Dr. Albert Weller, noted professor of chemistry at the University of Amsterdam, also agreed to speak on a date to be arranged.

Registration Summary

SPRING TERM enrollment figures showed a total of 807 students—26 more than last spring. Of this number, 775 are classified full-time students and 32 unclassified.

There are 146 seniors, 172 juniors, 193 sophomores and 264 freshmen. Men outnumber women in the grand total 429 to 378.

Biology continues to attract the largest enrollment of any department with 154. Others in order are history 100, education 96, mathematics 59 and chemistry 53.

Students in the News

CO-EDITORS have been elected to the student weekly newspaper, The Juniatian. They are: Judith M. Carleton, Franklin, Pa., and Judith F. Fairweather, Dunellen, N. J. Both are juniors majoring in Spanish and Dean's List students.

An Altoona senior, Robert K. Halbritter, is serving as lieutenant-governor of Division 11 of Circle K, a service club for college men sponsored by Kiwanis International. He is a charter member and past president of Circle K at Juniata.

The Juniata College Choir sings 40 or more concerts in churches, schools and on radio and television each season.

CONSTRUCTION OF LIBRARY 'ON SCHEDULE'

THE NEW LIBRARY—a heart of learning—is fast becoming a reality on the Juniata campus.

Construction of the College's $603,000 library has been "on and ahead of schedule." Hence, it should be ready for occupancy before the completion date of August 1, 1963.

Erection of the steel framework was finished in early winter and the building was under roof just before the first snowfall. As a result, the contractor (Paul E. Hickes) was able to move ahead on the exterior brick work.

A major share of the concrete block walls and brick facing was completed by mid-February and the building was heated to permit workmen to proceed despite sub-freezing temperatures.

Juniata's new library will provide space for 150,000 volumes in open stacks on three floors and will have one seat for every three students in various reading and seminar rooms.

The main floor, which opens from a lobby facing Memorial Physical Education building, will include large reading and reference rooms, periodical and browsing area, librarian's office, and a work room. A unique feature of the lobby will be ceramic plaques of the college seal, Huntingdon's standing stone, and the Church of the Brethren insignia.

On the second floor will be two reading rooms, three seminar and five typing rooms, a treasure room and staff lounge.

Gift of Books

THE COLLEGE LIBRARY has received a gift of more than 200 volumes from the estate of the late Congressman Richard M. Simpson. The books are primarily reference, history and fiction.

Construction of the College's new library is another major step in the current development program. The building should be completed by mid-summer.

PLEDGES EXCEED $1.7 MILLION

SUBSCRIPTIONS to Juniata College's $5.3 million development program have "exceeded $1,700,000" in the drive to provide more funds for buildings, improvements and endowment.

In a mid-winter report, Harold B. Brumbaugh, director of development, announced that $1,740,276 has been pledged toward the $5,350,000 objective.

Construction of the College's new $603,000 library is under way as a result of the "successful effort" in the first phase of the long-range development campaign.

Another important step calls for building a Science Center for "about $2,000,000" which will provide facilities for biology, chemistry, geology and physics. The Longwood Foundation of Wilmington, Del., provided a $400,000 "challenge gift" toward construction of the chemistry wing.

Stepped-up efforts to conclude the area campaigns in the alumni phase, which has resulted in pledges of $388,900, will be carried out by Joseph R. Good, Hollidaysburg banker and general chairman, in cooperation with Mr. Brumbaugh.

The alumni have shifted their efforts to the Pacific coast and the mid-west in a series of campaigns beginning in March.

The first campaign got under way March 9 in San Francisco. Others will follow in Detroit (March 22), Chicago (March 23) and Los Angeles (April 6).

Development Council

FORMATION of a President's Council on Development "for the understanding and support" of Juniata College has been recommended by the development committee of the board of trustees.

The trustee committee has suggested that the new council "be composed of representatives of the various constituent groups of the college." Members would be selected from trustees, administration, faculty, students, alumni, parents, church, industry, trust officers, attorneys, and friends in the Huntingdon and Juniata Valley area.

Geographical distribution will be considered "very important" in building the council which will ultimately number from 50 to 100 members.

The primary purpose of the proposed President's Council is to aid the College in its current $5,350,000 development program which has been considered the "most challenging undertaking" in the college's 87-year history.

Members of the development committee include: Joseph V. Kline, New York, N. Y., chairman of the board; Dr. John C. Baker, Essex Fells, N. J.; Donovan R. Beachley, Sr., Hagerstown, Md.; Joseph R. Good, Hollidaysburg, Pa.; LeRoy S. Maxwell, Waynesboro, Pa.; Dr. John B. Montgomery, Philadelphia; Lester M. Rosenberger, Narberth, Pa.; Dr. Calvert N. Ellis, president, and Harold B. Brumbaugh, director of development.

South Hall Dedicated

JUNIATA COLLEGE'S "careful planning and orderly development" was commended along with the vision of Dr. Calvert N. Ellis by Jay du Von, director of the College Housing Branch, Housing and Home Finance Agency, at the dedication of South Hall November 10.

In his message, Mr. du Von recalled his first visit to Juniata 15 years ago to attend a dedicating ceremony for one of the temporary buildings (now used by home economics). He said he was impressed then "with the way Juniata . . . arose to a back-breaking challenge . . . to our swiftly developing post-war civilization."

"Here at Juniata," Mr. du Von stated, "I have watched over the years the careful planning, orderly development and wise use of borrowing capacity for self-liquidating facilities which have equipped the college to house a very fair share of this new generation of students."

President Ellis was praised by the Washington official. "Your president has a reputation for integrity coupled with vision which goes far beyond the State of Pennsylvania and has made him one of the educational leaders of the nation. His wise counsel and advice are sought by the Federal Government on every important problem affecting higher education . . ."

Remarks of acceptance and appreciation were given at the dedication ceremony by John W. Swigart, Huntingdon, secretary of the board of trustees, and Elaine Brittingham, Millsboro, Del., chairman of women's government. The invocation was given by the Rev. Earl C. Kaylor, Jr., associate professor of religion. President Ellis presided.

Share in Sears Aid

THE COLLEGE has shared in the new aid-to-education program of Sears, Roebuck and Company. A check for $2,000 was presented to President Ellis.

Miller Scholarship

A SCHOLARSHIP fund in memory of his wife has been established at Juniata College by Thomas F. Miller, prominent Huntingdon business executive. The fund is now $15,000.

Income from the fund, known as the Neva M. Miller Scholarship, will provide one or more scholarships "for young men with financial need and promise of success in life by service to mankind." Consideration is given to athletic ability and preference to the Huntingdon area.

Mrs. Miller, one of the community's most active clubwomen and welfare worker, died November 8, 1959. She was one of the founders of the Huntingdon Music Club and of the Community Concert series. Born in Omaha, Neb., Mrs. Miller was educated at Dana College, and moved to Huntingdon with Mr. Miller in 1916.

Correction

The name of William N. Braunwarth '55 was omitted in the Alumni Fund Report in the Summer issue. Bill is a member of the One Hundred Club.

LOOKING TO THE FUTURE

THE EVER EXPANDING ROLE of Juniata College will be projected by President Calvert N. Ellis in his Commencement address to this year's Class of 1963 on Sunday, June 2.

Dr. Ellis, at the request of the Board of Trustees, will take a look into the future after completing his 20th year as president of the College. The years 1943 to 1963 have been a significant span in the 87-year history of Juniata, but President Ellis will emphasize the challenge of the future.

The important contribution which Dr. Ellis is making to higher education, on a national, state and local level, has brought him recognition as one of the country's most distinguished educators. His 20-year record at this College has been solid and convincing: Juniata has achieved a position among the nation's best liberal arts colleges.

Juniata's progress from a small institution of 249 students and an endowment of $637,261 when President Ellis was installed in 1943 to one of 846 students and an endowment of more than $1,500,000 in 1963 is remarkable.

Although Juniata honors tradition and respects the past, it is an ongoing institution of learning, not a collection of historic monuments. Dr. Ellis has accepted for Juniata the responsibility of educating the men and women of tomorrow and feels that they are entitled to the best teaching, the best facilities, and the most invigorating academic atmosphere that Juniata can offer.

ADMISSION BY TICKET ONLY

Grant From NSF

THE NATIONAL SCIENCE Foundation has awarded Juniata College a grant of $40,700 to conduct a summer institute for 40 high school chemistry teachers July 8 to Aug. 16.

The Institute, offered for the third year, will again be one of the special features of the College's annual summer session.

A six-week course in chemical equilibrium will be conducted in the Institute to provide background knowledge, recent advances, and help the teachers to strengthen, enrich and modernize the high school program. Dr. Donald M. Rockwell, chairman of the department of chemistry, will be Institute director.

Public Health Project

A PUBLIC HEALTH service grant of $18,260 from the National Institutes of Health has been awarded to Juniata College to conduct "an x-ray structural study of metal complexes of biguanides."

The project, under the direction of Dr. Dale L. Wampler, assistant professor of chemistry, is providing opportunities for three students.

Additional grants of $12,000 in each of three successive years is provided by the approval of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Hence, the total will "exceed $54,000" for this project.

Story Telling Hour

STORY-TELLING hours for Huntingdon children have been started by elementary education students in the junior class. Miss Gladys Weaver, assistant professor of education, is supervising the project each Monday.

President's Parley

INFORMAL STUDENT meetings with the president, Dr. Calvert N. Ellis, are continuing this year. Purpose of the "president's parley" is to provide a more effective means of communication with students.

FACULTY BRIEFCASE

Emeritus Rank for Dr. Will

THE FACULTY's senior professor, Dr. Homer C. Will, who only three years ago was selected by students at their "favorite prof," will become professor of biology emeritus at the end of the current college year.

Students, alumni, faculty and trustees will share in honoring this distinguished professor in his retirement year at banquets in May.

Appointed an instructor in 1927, Dr. Will has made his mark as a teacher because he has more than the usual desire to communicate and because he is excited enough about his field of science to want to tell others, particularly his students.

Dr. Will also has made a distinguished record as a researcher and science writer. He is an authority on sawflies and his research paper on Pennsylvania sawflies won a prize from Pennsylvania Academy of Science in 1959.

A past president of the Pennsylvania Academy of Science, Dr. Will served as editor of the Pennsylvania Science News Letter for many years. In 1947 he was elected a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science for his "standing as a scientist." Dr. Will, the biologist, the naturalist, is specifically an entomologist.

A native Virginian (born in Timber-ville, Va., May 28, 1898), Dr. Will was graduated from Bridgewater College in Virginia. He received his master of arts degree from the University of Virginia and Ph.D. from the University of Pittsburgh. He also took graduate study at Cornell University and Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Prior to joining the faculty of Juniata, Dr. Will taught high school science and coached athletics for five years in West Virginia schools. He also has served as a visiting professor in the main summer session at the Pennsylvania State University.

Basketball Is 'Revitalized'

Coach Harden, LeRoy Mock, Pat Frazier

A REVITALIZED basketball team took some giant strides on the road back to respectability in its second season under the cagey tutoring of Coach Ralph Harden.

The Tribe finished with an 8-10 record, a surprising improvement on the previous three seasons. Included among the victories were three stunning upsets over Shippensburg (75-64), Albright (55-53) and Elizabethtown (68-67), plus a near-miss with Scranton.

Pat Frazier, senior captain and playmaker from Hollidaysburg, was the only senior on the starting five. He teamed with three sophomores and a junior, who did not play last season.

None of them come from what you call basketball powers in high school ranks. Leroy Mock, 6-4 sophomore center from Imler, Pa., played for little Chestnut Ridge High in Bedford county, but he led the Indians in scoring with a 17.4 average and in rebounds with 27.4.

The other two sophomores, John Moeller and Don Engle, hail from Newfoundland, N. J. (Butler High) and Luzerne, Pa., respectively. Bob Hoellein, a junior from Barnesboro, Pa., played at Northern Cambria High.

Baseball Coach Named

EARL C. KAYLOR, JR. '46, an associate professor of religion and former semi-pro and college baseball player, is Juniata's new coach of baseball. He succeeds Kenneth B. Bunn, Jr., who resigned after seven years to go to Lafayette as head football coach.

A member of the Juniata faculty since 1958, Kaylor will continue his present teaching duties in addition to coaching baseball. He began indoor drills March 4 for a 16-game schedule.

Kaylor '46

Kaylor was a two-year letterman in baseball and basketball and served as student athletic director. He played semi-pro baseball in Pittsburgh and has been playing in the Huntingdon City Baseball League.

A native of Greensburg, Pa., Kaylor holds a B.D. degree (1949) from Bethany Seminary, Chicago, and an M.A. (1951) from Notre Dame. He is now a doctoral candidate in history at the Pennsylvania State University. Before coming to Juniata he served as pastor of the Westmont Church of the Brethren, Johnstown, for five years.

Schwaly Joins Bunn

ONE OF JUNIATA's top quarterbacks, Robert E. Schwalenberg '60, has accepted an appointment as assistant football coach at Lafayette College to join his former coach, Ken Bunn. Bob had been assistant director of admissions at Juniata since last September.

Schwaly played for Bunn for two years at West Shore High School and four years at Juniata. He was an all-MAC selection his senior year. Bunn says "he is very familiar with the offensive system we will use."

Bob was employed for two years as a sales and systems representative for Burroughs Corp. before coming to JC. He is married to the former Judith Garman '60, who has been an assistant in food service at the college.

PRENDER NAMED FOOTBALL COACH

FRED W. PRENDER, varsity backfield and wrestling coach at Bucknell University, has been named head football coach succeeding Ken Bunn who resigned.

Prender, 31, a Little All-American at West Chester College in 1954, was appointed to the faculty as assistant professor of physical education effective July 1. He will have one other coaching assignment in addition to football.

Selection of Prender, former Bristol, Pa., high football coach, was made "after careful screening of many able candidates following the resignation of Bunn," according to Dr. Calvert N. Ellis, president of Juniata College. Bunn left in February to become head football coach at Lafayette.

Athletic Director Ralph W. Harden, in a statement following the official announcement by the college president, said "Prender is well-grounded in the game of football in all respects . . . his background in physical education and his philosophy of an athletic program for small colleges fit our need at Juniata."

Prender becomes the 12th football coach in Juniata's 40 years of inter-collegiate play. Both of the assistant coaches, Bill Berrier, also a former Little All-American, and Ernie Post, will return to assist Prender.

Born in Washington, D. C., Prender was raised in Rosemont (Philadelphia area) and was graduated from Radnor, Pa., high school (1950). He was an All-State basketball choice and played football and baseball.

At West Chester, Prender played four years of varsity football and baseball and two years of basketball. He made the All Teachers Conference team four years and in 1954 he made the Little All-America and All-State teams. He was top scorer in the state in 1952 and played in the Blue-Gray game in 1954. He holds a B.S. in physical education from West Chester (1954).

Prender was drafted by the Pittsburgh Steelers in the NFL, but he elected to give baseball a try in the Baltimore Orioles chain. Later he played briefly with Toronto in the Canadian Football League.

He was head basketball and baseball coach at Wiconisco high school (Lykens, Pa.) for one year and then posted a 25-15-1 record as head football coach at Bristol High School during a four-year span before he went to Bucknell. He was selected Coach of the Year in 1956 and served a year as president of the Lower Bucks Conference.

Since 1959 Prender has been at Bucknell as varsity backfield coach and instructor in physical education. The Bisons won the Lambert Cup in 1960. He has posted a 19-3-3 record as head wrestling coach for three years.

Prender is married and has one daughter (8). His parents, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Prender live at 3647 Rosemont Ave., Drexel Hill, Pa.

Grid Season Reviewed

COACH KEN BUNN stated, before leaving in February to accept the head football post at Lafayette, that his seventh and last season "was my most interesting year at Juniata."

"Every game had suspense, drama, surprises, and, of course, courage. That may sound a little corny, that courage, but we would not have won six ball games without it."

It's past history now, but few will forget the manner in which the Indians took a one-sided opener from Trenton, then roared back after successive losses to Moravian and Indiana to win five straight exciting football games from Geneva, Wilkes, Hampton Institute, Albright and Westminster. All of this was accomplished in spite of key injuries to such linemen as Bill Crowell and Pete Marzio and the thinnest bench in the post-war years (only 29 men dressed for Westminster).

Among the fine group of players, Ron (Peewee) Poruban gained the major share of honors. The 5-7 passing wizard from Portage shattered three records and accounted for 1,077 yards in total offense. In so doing, the senior quarterback became the second in Juniata's football history to exceed 1,000 yards in one season. Pat Tarquinio '56, now coach at Ellwood City, Pa., had 1,351 yards in nine games for 1955's undefeated Tangerine Bowl team.

Poruban, who gained honorable mention All-State and second team Middle Atlantic Conference northern division, broke Tarquinio's career mark in passes completed and passing yardage.

In four seasons, Ron completed 112 for 1,990 yards to surpass Tark's 94 for 1,797 yards, but he was one short of Tarquinio's 25 TD passes. In addition, Poruban set a single game passing mark with 243 yards in losing to Indiana State.

Grey Berrier, first team MAC end, shared honors with Poruban by leading in scoring (32 points), pass receiving (17 for 279 yards), and punting (36.2 in 33 punts).

Co-captains Dave Oliver and Poruban led eight seniors in the Tribe lineup: Tony Faber, Barry Moore, Larry Skinner, Gawen Stoker, Al Tavalsky and Vince Valicenti.

Coach Bunn's record of 41-10-1 over seven seasons made him the "winningest" coach at Juniata. His teams were undefeated in 1957 and 1958.

Pressure Off Harriers

JUNIATA'S cross-country team had its 38-meet victory string snapped this fall but completed its seventh highly successful winning season with a 6-1 record.

Led by Bob Berthold, senior from Paterson, N. J., and Earl Samuel, sophomore from Johnstown (Richland Township), the Indians lost only to West Chester. Berthold won four, took two seconds and placed third in the lone defeat.

Samuel led the Juniata harriers in the Middle Atlantic championships at Cobbs Creek in Philadelphia with a 10th place finish, but the Tribe could do no better than 8th in the fast field.

The Indians defeated Moravian, Elizabethtown, Susquehanna, and Geneva before losing to West Chester. The team finished with victories over Franklin and Marshall and Albright.

Juniata's amazing seven year cross-country record under the veteran track mentor, P. M. (Mike) Snider, now shows 43 victories, 2 defeats.

Ruble Sparks Matmen

SPARKED BY the 190-pound Duane Ruble of Sinking Spring, Pa., who won eight of nine in regular season and reached the semi-finals of the MAC in the unlimited class, Juniata's wrestling team looked better.

But so did most of its opponents, and the Indians had to settle for a 3-6 record under Coach Bill Berrier in his first season.

Victories were recorded over Dickinson, St. Francis and Lebanon Valley, but the Tribe dropped decisions to Lycoming, Shippensburg, Elizabethtown, Indiana, Albright and Gettysburg.

Ruble pinned five opponents and gained one forfeit in the heavyweight class and was 2-1 in the 191-class. He won two bouts in the Middle Atlantics before losing a 5-1 decision in the semi-finals. J. C. Day dropped an opening round decision at 167 pounds in the MAC.

Mrs. Kipp and her two children reached her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Alley, in Sebring, Fla., after a tension-packed evacuation. She packed one suitcase and another small box which contained clothing for herself and both children. They were ready for a bus which took them to a seaplane tender for the voyage to the United States.

The Sebring, Fla., News reported that Mrs. Kipp said "there were 351 of us on the tender . . . and we shared bunks, sleeping in eight-hour shifts. The bunk was of the hammock type, so we either had to lie down or stand."

"Fortunately, the ship's two decks were rigged so that the children would be safe on deck and we spent much of our time there . . . we were really packed like sardines." The evacuees left Guantanamo Monday, Oct. 22, and arrived in Norfolk, Va., Thursday night.

Betty (Finnegan) Simpson sent the following information to let alumni office know

A MAN GOES TO GOUCHER

GOUCHER COLLEGE in Towson (Baltimore, Md.) had an entirely female student body from 1885 until Howard F. Long '50 came along and enrolled as a graduate student last year.

Now Howard has become the first man in history to crash through the Chintz Curtain of Goucher, but he did not do it just for that reason, according to the Baltimore Sun. Mr. Long says he enrolled because Goucher offers the program which fits in with his needs. The program is a one-year study course leading to a master of education degree, designed to prepare a liberal arts graduate to teach in elementary schools.

The Sun describes Howard as "unusual in two other ways." He quit a lucrative business position to become a school teacher . . . and he wants to teach elementary school in a slum area "because that's where the work needs to be done."

Howard studied at Harvard School of Business after graduating from Juniata; then he worked for 10 years in his family's agricultural chemical business. He is married to Patricia Zug '50 and they have three children at home in Owings Mills, Md.
